

RUDELY INTERRUPTED

One of Australia's most celebrated bands, Rudely Interrupted have toured the world, played some of the biggest and most different stages, starred in a critically acclaimed documentary film, and are set to release their debut record "Tragedy of the Commons"

But what make the band's achievements even more remarkable are the disabilities five of the six musicians share including blindness, deafness, autism and Down Syndrome. Rudely Interrupted is neither a novelty act nor a cover band but rather an inspiring and talented group of musicians that pump out uplifting pitch perfect indie-pop described by The Village Voice, "... as the real deal a Melbourne group with a taut impassioned sound somewhere between the Killers and Wire."

Formed in 2006 by chance, Rudely Interrupted grew quickly to perform live in 2007. Rudely Interrupted's musicians may have been blessed with a collective set of wonky genes, but the bottom line is they make pitch perfect power pop end of and regardless of story. Their live show's leaves the audience in awe and ultimately inspired and the music reviews worldwide have been nothing but outstanding.

Recently the subject of an Network TV premiere on Australia's ABC TV 60 minute rockumentary film that followed Rudely Interrupted on the rock 'n' roll adventure of a lifetime from the pubs and clubs of Australia to the United Nations in New York and beyond creating a piece of history along the way.

Rudely Interrupted positively add to the rich musical cultural heritage of Australia and the international music communities. We believe creativity is a way forward and hey it gives the academics something to study. The band have and continue to receive airplay on over 30 stations across Australia including: Triple M (Melb/Syd) Triple R (Melb) Triple J, FBI, PBS and many more as well as many TV appearances and performances across the world include: Spicks n Specks, ABC TV, Rage, Canada AM, MTV, Musique Plus and many many more. We aim higher than our target, but we always hit the target"

Tragedy of the Commons is the stunning debut album from the Melbourne six piece and entertainment explosion Rudely Interrupted. Mixed by Paul McKercher (Spiderbait, Augie March, You Am I) at 301 in Sydney, the band's recently toured the USA and Canada in support of its release. Available now on iTunes.

The band's latest video single - directed by one of Australia's leading music directors Tov Belling - "Close My Eyes" is the feature indie clip of the week on ABC TV music program Rage. It will screen across network TV and pay TV in Australia from May, and USA and Canada throughout June to coincide with the release of the band's debut album and forthcoming tour.

In June 2010 Rudely Interrupted performed at The Kennedy Centre in Washington DC as part of the 2010 International VSA Arts festival. Performances follow in New York City (Pianos), Brooklyn (Brooklyn Bowl), Northampton, MA (Iron Horse), Toronto (NXNE Music Festival), Ottawa (Zaphod Beeblebrox) and Montreal (Le Lion D'Or). The Rudies have worked with Canada's biggest and best promoter DKD Events, Donald K Donald and performed on some of the worlds biggest stages so expect the to be blown away when you see this incredible act perform live.!

Reviews:

"Their music is some of the most energetic and genuine to emerge from the Australian rock 'n' roll underground in recent times." - Time Out Magazine

"This Melbourne group - with a taut, impassioned sound somewhere between the Killers and Wire - happens to be the real deal." - The Village Voice

"Rudely Interrupted manage to out-anthem The Killers." - Toronto's Eye Weekly

"If you've never heard them before expect some extremely well-crafted music by a bunch of guys who happen to have been saddled with a slightly wonky set of genes." - VICE Magazine

"There is nothing disabled about this band. These guys rock!" - Fox News Red Eye

"Rudely Interrupted would be nothing without the music."- The London Times

<http://www.rudelyinterrupted.com/>